

During my internship, I'd like to work with a news organization, either broadcast or print. I'd like to get experience doing things like editing stories, doing research for stories, writing stories, making phone calls, designing page layout, or anything that would help me to get an impression of the life of a professional journalist. In a newsroom or studio, I would be willing to do anything necessary to help out. This valuable experience would help me directly in my career, since I plan to be a professional journalist when I graduate from college. In the field of journalism, there is no better training than experience.
